

ISSN (E): 2277- 7695
ISSN (P): 2349-8242
NAAS Rating: 5.23
TPI 2021; SP-10(5): 150-151
© 2021 TPI
www.thepharmajournal.com
Received: 19-02-2021
Accepted: 06-04-2021

YD Haritha
Department of Human Development and Family
Studies, College of Home Science,
Acharya NG Ranga Agricultural
University, Andhra Pradesh,
India

Dr. Uma Devi
Department of Human
Development and Family
Studies, College of Home Science,
Acharya NG Ranga Agricultural
University, Andhra Pradesh,
India

Father's involvement in raising children: Urban areas

YD Haritha and Dr. Uma Devi

Abstract

Anyone can father a child, but being a dad takes a lifetime. Father's involvement play a key role in every child's life that cannot be filled by others. This involvement can have a large impact on a child and help shape him or her into the person they become. The perception and practices of fathering in India is changing rapidly. Traditional Indian notions endorsed the fathers' role as a provider, protector, teacher and a moral guardian to children (Kane 1974; Krishnan, 1998). The present study makes an attempt to understand the father's involvement in raising children: urban areas. The results revealed that 92 percent faced difficulties in fulfilling children's physical and psychological needs, 88 percent fathers Created a conducive environment for children's, 83 percent fathers Guided for future and making them independent, 75 percent fathers inculcated in good values, habits in children.

Keywords: Father's involvement, children

Introduction

Fathers, like mothers, are pillars in the development of a child's emotional well-being. Children look to their fathers to lay down the rules and enforce them. They also look to their fathers to provide a feeling of security, both physical and emotional. Children want to make their fathers proud, and an involved father promotes inner growth and strength. Studies have shown that when fathers are affectionate and supportive, it greatly affects a child's cognitive and social development. It also in stills an overall sense of well-being and self-confidence.

Most fathers in today's urban context in western India (Mumbai, Baroda, and Jaipur) expect an ideal father to be aware of and address the child's need, and be a friend, teacher and guide to the child (Saraff & Srivastava, 2008) [4].

In addition, fathers think it is their 'duty' to create a conducive environment for the child's growth, address their child's health needs, support both present but future security of the child, and maintain healthy loving and close relationships with children. Research studies with Indian fathers report a host of positive fathering Ideals such as guiding children's education, becoming more open, expressive, adopting less strict discipline measures, assigning more importance to children and their fathering role, prioritizing communication with their children, and engaging children in extracurricular activities (Mathur & Mathur, 2006; Sandhu, 2008; Sriram, 2003, 2008) [3, 5, 6].

Research Method

It focused on children (3 to 15 years). The main focus of the study was to study father's involvement in raising children: urban areas.

Research findings and Discussion

The data collected with respect to understand the fathers involvement in raising children: urban areas. The results revealed that 92 percent faced difficulties in fulfilling children's physical and psychological needs, 88 percent fathers Created a conducive environment for children's, 83 percent fathers Guided for future and making them independent, 75 percent fathers inculcated in good values, habits in children.

Conclusion

The data collected with respect to understand the fathers involvement in raising children: urban areas. The results revealed that 92 percent faced difficulties in fulfilling children's physical and psychological needs, 88 percent fathers Created a conducive environment for children's, 83 percent fathers Guided for future and making them independent, 75 percent fathers inculcated in good values, habits in children.

Corresponding Author:
YD Haritha
Department of Human Development and Family
Studies, College of Home Science,
Acharya NG Ranga Agricultural
University, Andhra Pradesh,
India

Table 1: Shows in Statements category, F and P

n = 60

S. No.	Statements	Total
		Category	F	P
1	Faced difficulties in fulfilling children's physical and psychological needs	Yes	55	92
		No	5	8
2	Creating a conducive environment for children's	Yes	53	88
		No	7	12
3	Guiding for future and making them independent	Yes	50	83
		No	10	17
4	Inculcating good values, habits in children	Yes	45	75
		No	15	25
		Total	60	100

References

1. Kane PV. History of Dharmasastra. Ancient and medieval religious and civil law. Poona: Bhandarkar Institute Press 1974;2.
2. Krishnan L. Childrearing: The Indian perspective. In A.K. Shrivastava (Ed.) Child Development: The Indian Perspective. New Delhi: NCERT Press 1998.
3. Mathur M, Mathur M. Between Fathers and Children: Experiences and expectation of Indian adolescents. Unpublished master's dissertation, Department of Human Development, University of Rajasthan, Jaipur 2006.
4. Saraff A, Srivastava H. Envisioning Fatherhood: Indian Fathers' Perceptions of an Ideal Father. Population Review 47 2008.
http://muse.jhu.edu/journals/population_review/v047/47.1.saraff.pdf
5. Sriram R. Subjective experiences of fatherhood and motherhood: Realities and Reflections, Unpublished PhD dissertation, Department of Human Development and Family studies, M.S. University of Baroda, Baroda 2003.
6. Sriram R. Evidence of Change and Continuity in Fathering: The Case of Western India. Paper presented at Conference on Resilience and Transformation of Families in Asia, organized by Asia Research Institute, National University of Singapore 2008.